

Shed light on the depths of your network...

routepro.net is an online product of rdcaviation

How well is your network performing?

Find out with routepro.net network, the brand new addition to the successful routepro.net economics. It will help you to improve understanding of your route network with clear presentation of key data.

Flexibility in setup and intuitive on-screen analysis means its application is company-wide. Managers can quickly visualise top-level changes and trends, whilst analysts can edit data, and drill down into the key figures behind.

This new module will help you analyse how well your network is performing in no time. You'll have the ability to:

- > assess airline performance at route and country level
- > identify routes with potential to grow
- > provide early warning for underperforming routes
- > target countries with potential for more destinations
- > view and analyse up to four years of data to begin understanding future performance

Uncover the hidden truths about your network today.

“ We use routepro.net on a regular basis, when evaluating new and existing routes from our 46 airports. It is very useful when trying to determine the sustainability of new projects, by checking out what average yields an airline need to achieve. We also use it as a quick reference check, for cabin factors, block time calculations, charges and other purposes.

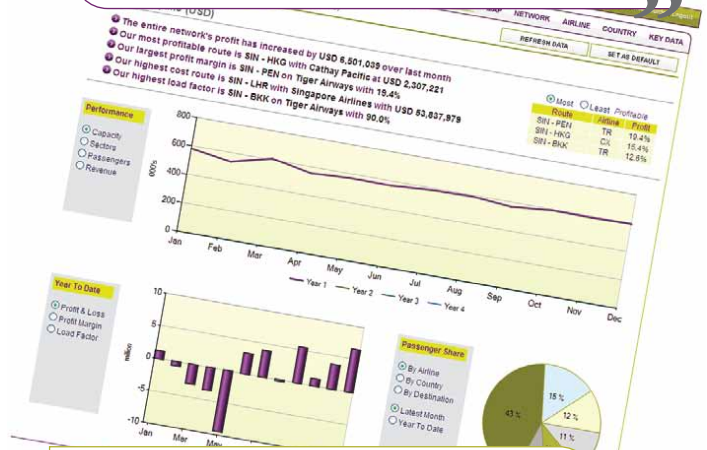

Avinor

Overview: it's easy to quickly understand where your network is performing at its best and worst

“ At CityJet we use routepro.net in both Finance and Network departments. We find it a very useful tool to support our in-depth route evaluation activity and also to enable quick "what-if" analysis of potential routes.

CityJet

Monthly Topline: managers will see headlines of key changes from last month, with a simple dashboard below for analysing top-level figures

With network you can:

- 1 Save time: as a manager you'll save considerable time in understanding key events and changes from month-to-month
- 2 Increase revenue: allocate internal resources more effectively - encourage the most successful airlines to expand, whilst providing marketing assistance to only those that need it
- 3 Analyse confidently: upload your own data (or we'll obtain it from credible sources), then adjust variables, and you'll be confident in presenting the outcomes
- 4 Improve presentation: the colourful charts and maps can be used in management reports to give a professional look
- 5 Share with colleagues: as an online system, results can be shared between departments - no matter where you are

Apply for your free trial of routepro.net today:

Phone: +44 (0)115 959 8182

Email: info@rdcaviation.com

Website: www.rdcaviation.com/routepro

